

History Teachers' Discussion Forum

Seminars

Formal discussion area for History teaching and learning issues.

39

884

May 4 2004, 11:39 AM

In: >> History and Citizenship

By: gav

Wouldn't it be great if you could sit in a staffroom with dozens of History teachers from all over the UK (plus many from overseas) and discuss teaching and learning with them?

The International Arena

International issues and discussion - exchanges, collaborative projects and work.

54

246

Apr 27 2004, 09:57 AM

In: >> IGCSE

By: Richard

Broader issues and political discourse

Discussion about broader issues relating to the profession.

5

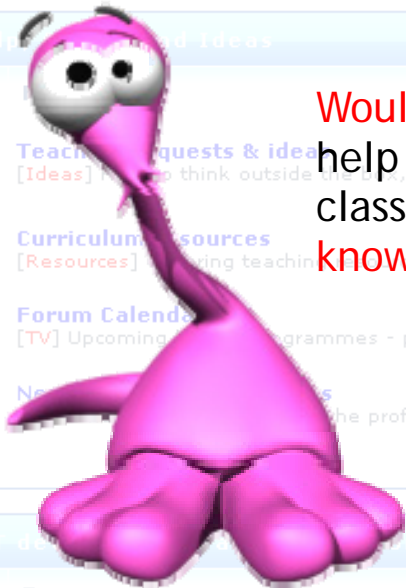

62

May 5 2004, 09:57 AM

In: >> History and Citizenship

By: JohnDClarke

Wouldn't it be great if you could ask them to share with you any ideas they have about history teaching?

Wouldn't it be great if you could ask these History teachers to give you some help with any problems you might be having from lesson planning, to classroom control, to ...well quite frankly to anything that you need to know or discuss?

... that is what the History Teachers' Discussion Forum is.

www.SchoolHistory.co.uk/forum

The History Teachers' Discussion forum is a freely available resource run by teachers for fellow teachers. Set up in August 2002, it now has over 1000 members and nearly 30,000 posts. It boasts a vibrant, diverse and lively community where all history teachers are made welcome. With hundreds of frequent posts, recent topics of discussion include: active learning, history and citizenship, numeracy, effective differentiation, developing GCSE teaching, PGCE help and advice, effective use of ICT, 'What's the best way to teach...?', Special needs advice, coursework, starters and plenaries, how to spend e-Learning credits, the funny things students say... Includes CPD discussion seminars, teaching ideas, curriculum resources, ICT advice...

There is something for everyone - don't miss out - join the community today! Even includes upcoming History TV programmes...

